ARMISTICE & AFTERMATH A WORLD WAR ONE SYMPOSIUM

SEPTEMBER 28-29, 2018

MICHIGAN TECHNOLOGICAL UNIVERSITY • HOUGHTON, MICHIGAN

CALL FOR PAPERS

Armistice Day 2018 marks the centenary end of World War I. This symposium explores the conditions and impacts of the "Great War," as experienced during and afterwards, with a special focus on the perspective from the American Heartland. The war had tremendous human and economic repercussions. It also motivated technological, medical, and cultural advances, and it paved the way for transformative social change, from Prohibition to women's suffrage.

Keynote speakers: Dr. John H. Morrow, Jr., Franklin Professor of History, University of Georgia. Author (with Jeffrey T. Sammons) of Harlem's Rattlers and the Great War: The Undaunted 369th Regiment and the African American Quest for Equality (2014) and Dr. Lynn Dumenil, Robert Glass Cleland Professor Emerita of American History, Occidental College. Author of The Second Line of Defense: American Women and World War I (2017).

We invite papers that examine a wide range of topics such as, but not limited to

- ▶ Domestic and regional mobilization and demobilization
- ▶ Social implications of technologies and industries of war
- ▶ Reintegration and post-war shifts in gender, class, and labor relations
- ▶ Cultural representations of war, home-front support, and life in the aftermath
- ▶ Memories of the war in music, literature, film, drama, art, graphic arts
- ▶ Civil rights, social stratifications, and diversity in the military and civilian life
- ▶ The peace and anti-war movements
